Training tool for young entrepreneurs

With the support of the Youth in Action programme of the EU

THE PROJECT

The participatory video is an educational innovative method which has demonstrated the improvement of individual skills (communication, motivation, initiative, self-esteem, confidence, etc.) and team building (cooperation, empathy, respect, leadership, etc.) and has been shown as effective and quality tool in the field of education.

The objective of this project is to promote entrepreneurship initiatives and self-employment skills, by elaborating participatory videos through which youth will gain capacities and skills to face professional projects as well as to set out new goals and objectives.

The specific objectives are:

- To promote cultural diversity and European citizenship;
- To develop entrepreneurial spirit and encourage self-employment among unemployed youth;
- To work on team building activities against individuality;
- To transfer to other contexts the methodology through “Participatory Video Guidelines”.

AIM

The PAVITT project aims to implement the innovative methodology of participatory video in the field of training and non-formal education with the objective to strengthen employment capacities and entrepreneurship spirit addressed to unemployed youth.

METHODOLOGY

The participatory video is a methodology that invites and motivates young people (based on intention of compromising) to overcome employment barriers, to be autonomous and to exploit their capacities in order to undertake new entrepreneurial initiatives.

The participatory video could benefit the compromise (refer to the fact that this tools shows immediate results), the responsibility (refer to enjoyable but rigorous process which allows to participants to have the project under control) and the publicity (giving their point of view to the general public, including political and social responsible).

The result is a quality work, developing relevant capacities to increase their personal development in terms of lifelong learning and entrepreneurial initiative.

WORKPLAN

The planned activities and working methods will contribute to the process of non-formal learning and to the promotion of social, professional and personal development of young people involved in the project.
